our mission

The Center for Enriched Living exists so that people with developmental disabilities can be fully included in the community, achieve personal success, and enjoy a good quality of life.

For more than 45 years, The Center for Enriched Living has been the place where people with intellectual and developmental disabilities have come to meet friends, learn and enjoy new experiences, and be active members of their communities.

We're not a school - though we offer after-school social activities to students.

We're not residential - though we provide enrichment to residents of homes like Lambs Farm, Misericordia, Glenkirk, Orchard Village, Shore and many more.

We're not a place of employment - though we enhance those skills that make it easier to find and keep a job.

Our members have the capacity to lead rich and full lives as those without disabilities - and they do, thanks to this unique and wonderful non-profit center better known as CEL.

Donna enjoys learning and uses our touch screen computers to enhance her reading skills. Our members use technology to expand their computer skills and to communicate.

Our first strategic plan

paved the way for our building which opened in 2000. Our last plan identified the need to open our doors wider in order to serve all levels of developmental disabilities. And out of that plan came the goal to literally open our doors wider to include all who are able to benefit from our programs – regardless of their ability level.

We have embraced a concept called Universal Design (UD), in which buildings and objects are designed so that everyone can enjoy and use them in the same way, regardless of ability. To that end, we've been involved in a capital campaign to retrofit our building to the principles of Universal Design. When we reach our $5 million campaign goal – our building, as beautiful as it is, will be transformed into a seamless environment that supports all abilities equally through Universal Design.

As I learn about and speak to people on this design principle I have come to believe that UD is more than a building or an environment – it's about an attitude. We believe that people with developmental disabilities should be part of the community, experience continued growth and enjoy a good quality of life. We are not able to achieve this vision on our own – we need your help.

Whether it's by making a donation to CEL; making sure that businesses and communities are welcoming and supportive to people with disabilities; and/or providing much needed employment to the most underemployed demographic in Illinois and across the nation – if we each play a role, the transformation to full equality will take place that much sooner.

Thank you,

Noel Elfant
President, CEL Board of Directors

We believe that people with developmental disabilities should be part of the community, experience continued growth and enjoy a good quality of life.

My love of this work

began in the 70's when I was earning my BS degree in Elementary/Special Education at Northeastern University in Boston. Back then I realized the contributions that people with developmental disabilities could make to their communities when given that opportunity. I also believed that they should, be full participants in the community with equal access to all facets of community life.

In reviewing my 25 years at CEL I had the opportunity to reminisce with Ruthy, a long-time CEL member who grabs life with gusto. She's an avid swimmer, loves getting the leading role in performances, goes on as many CEL vacations as she can, and has been working all of her adult life. Ruthy loves to volunteer and give back to the community. She loves her friends and her family and I don't think she's missed a CEL dance in all the years she's been coming here. Ruthy is happy because she is living life on her terms and making life-affirming decisions for herself.

I am driven by the mission that all people with developmental disabilities have as full a life as Ruthy. Sadly, this is not as common as it should be. There are many barriers that keep people with developmental disabilities from enjoying the well-rounded and full life they deserve. As a community, a state, and even a nation – we need to adjust our attitudes. When we learn to respect and value the contributions that everyone can make to our communities, we become richer and stronger. Our members' interests, hopes, wishes and dreams are no different than yours or mine. They love learning and developing new hobbies. They are hard-working employees. They want to enjoy meaningful and romantic relationships. They are volunteers in the community and enjoy giving back. They are active consumers who love to shop, go bowling, attend the theater, movies and restaurants.

My vision, and that of CEL, is that one day, all the Ruthys of the world will be able to live life on their terms; be appreciated, supported and included in all levels of community life. Thank you for helping CEL be a vehicle to drive that vision to reality. Your generous support is removing barriers and providing opportunities every day.

Executive Director

2012 Accomplishments

The Center Presents (TCP) was created in response to member requests for weekday afternoon programs for teens and adults, reflecting the budgets, varied interests and schedules of our members. After-school satellites offered programming in a youth's own school in response to parents' desire that there not be long travel times at the end of the day.

Our REACH Day Program experienced a 34% increase in membership in FY12 and continues to grow. It currently serves an average of 19 people per day, with new members joining every month. This program fills a critical void for young adults age 22 transitioning out of school, as well as older adults looking for an alternative to the workshop environment. The REACH employment readiness component offers job skill experience to the members.

Jack enthusiastically participated in the REACH members' leaf-raking activity, which members thought up, planned and executed.

Josh, Jay, Matt, Collette and Becky joined the Membership Advisory Council (MAC), created in FY 2012 to act as liaisons between the general membership and staff. Together they practice leadership and self-advocacy skills.

As we open our doors to members with a wider range of developmental disabilities, we're enhancing staff training, including training on autism. In FY12, all program staff became certified in Quality Behavioral Services (QBS, Inc.) Safety-Care program, learning how to de-escalate behavioral crises and physically intervene in an emergency. We continued to offer comprehensive training to all staff, including CPR, First Aid, and how to identify and report abuse and neglect.

CEL initiated a Quality Assurance program, which will systematically examine each program we run for effectiveness and ways to improve. Evaluation criteria include opportunities for members to problem-solve and self-advocate; use of volunteers; and member to staff ratios.

The Healthy Lifestyles agency-wide initiative, which raises members' awareness of good nutrition and fitness, continues to make an impact. In 2012, REACH began Club Fit, a more intensive weekly class focused on movement and exercise. Members walk with pedometers, lift weights, practice yoga, and do balance exercises.

Programs

School-age Youth

CEL programs are "Person Centered." Members are encouraged to voice their preferences, make decisions about what they want to learn and do, and expand their outlook by trying new experiences.

Youth programs serve people ages 13 to 22, through after-school programs, excursions and summer camp.

An afternoon at the pool is the quintessential summer activity. Campers enjoy activities at the community pools three afternoons a week. On other days they choose specialty camp activities such as horseback riding, drama, creative arts or Center Chefs' cooking camp.

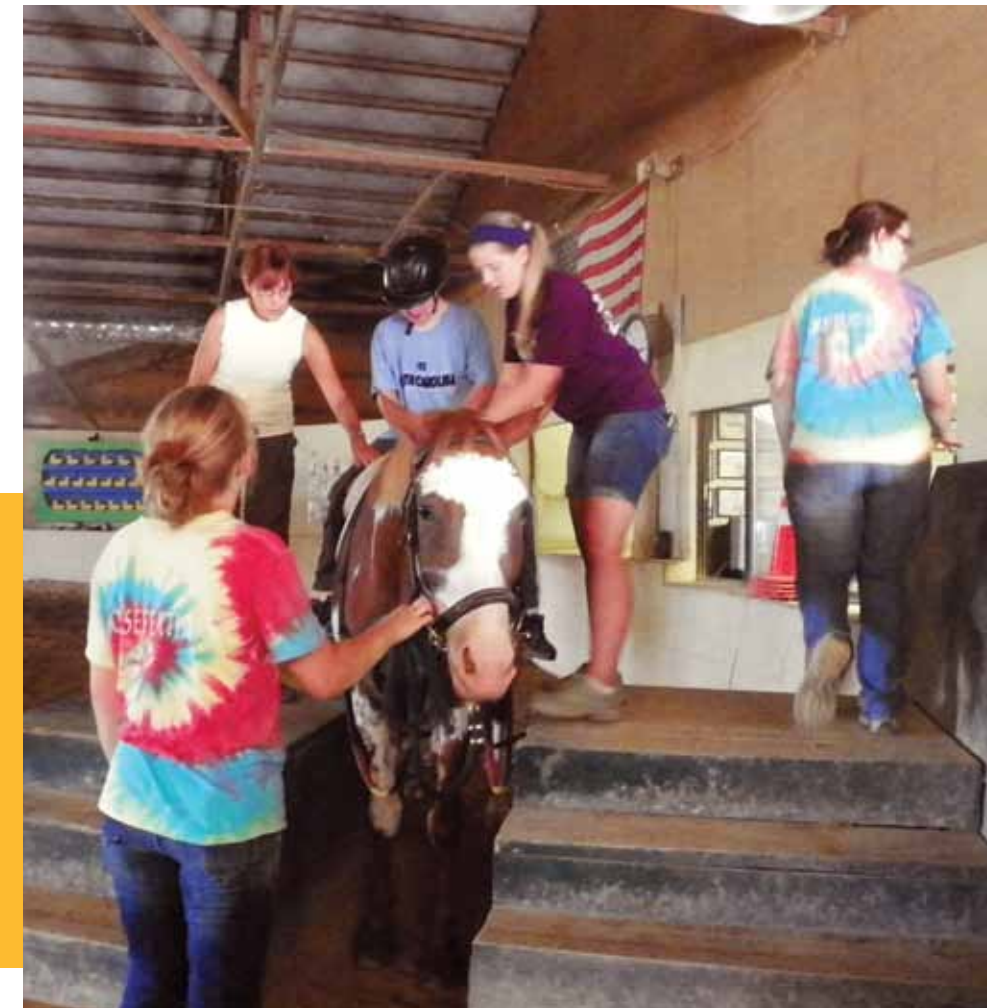

Students in an After School Satellite Social Club find passing a marble through cardboard tubes is a fun challenge that develops team work, concentration and coordination.

Adults and Young Adults

Whether attending a day program such as REACH, a weekly program on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights or Saturday and Sunday, or one-time excursions or dances, every member from young adult through senior citizen finds programs that meet their interests and needs.

Cooking is popular with everyone. Andy and Matt enjoy preparing a new recipe in a Friday night program.

Our youngest member is 13 and our oldest member is 86.

At Horsefeathers Therapeutic Riding Center, members receive physical and social benefits from caring for and riding the horses.

Collaborations

CEL members live, work, and play in the greater community, and our job is to help them be aware of, and have access to, its many resources.

By collaborating with 77 agencies, organizations, schools, and businesses, we help expand the opportunities within the community for youth and adults with developmental disabilities.

We'd like to thank the following for their partnership this past year.

ELA is now in its eighth year, and provides 23 adults – ages 22 and up – opportunities to increase independent living skills, continue learning, socialize and enjoy recreation activities.

“My son appreciates and enjoys the Round Lake After School Social Club. He has every date on the calendar! He tells me everything about the crafts they made, what he ate and which songs they danced to! He really enjoys and looks forward to those Club Dates. I am very thankful that you bring the club to Round Lake Senior High School, and only hope that in the future you bring it MORE OFTEN!”

How You Can Help

There are many ways to make a donation to CEL. Online donations can be made at www.CenterForEnrichedLiving.org. We also accept checks payable to The Center for Enriched Living, credit cards, grants from donor advised funds, and gifts of stock. Donations received by June 30, 2013 will be listed in the 2013 annual report.

PLANNING FOR YEARS AHEAD

Many of our donors have made provisions in their estate plans for CEL. A bequest is the simplest means to assure we are here for the future generations of people with developmental disabilities.

Please contact Randi Frank, Director of Development, at Randi@CenterForEnrichedLiving.org or 847.315.9919 for additional information on making a bequest.

The Center for Enriched Living is a 501(c)(3) charitable organization.

Dena and Scott met at CEL ten years ago, married in 2008 and still enjoy their participation in CEL programs and excursions.

CEL Develops Social Skills

For someone with autism, it is often extremely difficult to make eye contact. The slightest noise can be extremely painful and uncomfortable. The human touch is not always appreciated. Communicating and connecting socially to others does not come easily.

When Billy first came to CEL after transitioning out of high school, he made it clear that he was not comfortable here. He needed headphones to help minimize ambient noise, and wears them less often now.

Today after nearly 3 years in the REACH program, Billy is able to look you in the eye. He enjoys acting on stage and has had lead roles in our Sunday Drama Club productions.

Billy has friends at CEL. This is just the beginning of Billy's journey into adulthood as he continues to discover who he is and all he is capable of achieving.

We believe we have a mandate to offer the highest quality programming at an affordable cost. The majority of our members live at or below the federal poverty threshold, meaning we cannot pass on the full cost of programs to them. We do not receive federal or state funding.

You, our generous donors, continue to enrich our mission with your support. In supporting The Center for Enriched Living, you make the very best kind of investment – you invest in human potential. Our members experience so many “firsts” here – their first time speaking in public, riding a horse, or getting a job – and other personal achievements too numerous to list. Your thoughtfulness and foresight ensures we can continue to foster our members’ inclusion, growth, and success. On their behalf, thank you.

The donor list that follows is for gifts made in our 2012 fiscal year, from July 1, 2011 to June 30, 2012.

Our Volunteers

Bob Franz retired in 2007, after a rewarding career as the Deerfield Village Manager. As a member of the Deerfield Rotary Club for 27 years, he first became familiar with CEL when the Club volunteered in our Friday night program.

In the years since his retirement, Bob has pursued volunteering assignments that interested him. For the last year, one of those has been as a Tuesday morning volunteer with CEL's REACH program.

Bob has participated in REACH activities as varied as horseback riding, computers, and visiting the public library. On his first day of REACH in May, 2012, he was assigned to fishing, an activity that was not initially up his alley. "My sons kidded me over that one. When I took them while they were growing up, they would never let me hook bait." Being open minded to new experiences, Bob went along and from that first day with the members he was "hooked."

When asked what stands out about the volunteer experience, Bob compliments the members on how they treat each other. "I am taken with how they look out for each other and have formed a community, of which I feel privileged to be included. CEL is the members' place and the way they take care of each other while here, is an inspiration of how we should all treat each other."

Bob is one of 348 volunteers that support CEL each year with their gift of time and talent. Volunteers assist professional staff in programs, either on a regular basis or for special occasions, provide needed services, accompany members on community outings, help with fundraising events and office work, and serve on our Board of Directors. To learn more about opportunities to suit your interests and schedule, contact Elizabeth Mesjak, Support Services Manager, at 847.315.9921 or Elizabeth@CenterForEnrichedLiving.org.

"I am taken with how they look out for each other and have formed a community, of which I feel privileged to be included."

CEL Governance

The annual board retreat energizes board members and key staff, builds relationships, and engages the board for more effective governance.
